

Some of the ways our children engage with and learn History

During our History lessons, children have the opportunity to learn about the past from a variety of different sources – including books, websites, videos, drama, trips out and handling and observing real-life artefacts.

Learning about dinosaurs through researching in non-fiction books.

Finding out about how the dinosaurs became extinct and exploring this through drama and role play.

Exploring the height and length of different dinosaurs and comparing them to themselves. Linked to their Mathematics work on measuring.

Real life artefacts being used to help support children's understanding of the concept of old and new.

Some of the ways our children engage with and learn History

Visit to the Historic Dockyard in Portsmouth to learn about the HMS Victory and having the opportunity to handle and observe artefacts.

Children from KS1 taking part in a live "History show" to learn about the causes and impact of WWI in preparation for Remembrance Day.

Watching a video of the 1969 moon landing.
